2d VP Bereitschaft (Inf) in Land Thuringia

1. In September 1950, the 2d VP Bereitschaft (Inf) was located in the Kradshuetzen Kaserne on Thansbrueckerstrasse in the northern sector of Langensalza. It numbered 950 to 1,000 police and was organized into a headquarters, three Kommandos of four Abteilungen each, and one Sonderabteilung which was a mortar unit.
2. The officers of the 2d VP Bereitschaft included VP-Oberrat Bitterlich, (fmu), commanding officer, ex-captain of the German Air Force; VP-Oberrat Klassen, (fmu), PK officer; VP Oberrat Pushkin, (fmu), Soviet control officer; VP-Rat Prieske, (fmu), director of training; VP-Oberkommissar Horst Koehler, operations officer; VP-Oberkommissar Grimm, (fmu), administrative officer; VP-Kommissar Helmut Guenther, personnel officer; VP-Rat Paul Fischer, SED party secretary; VP-Kommissar Bauer, (fmu), FDJ secretary; VP-Rat Strugala, (fmu), liaison officer; and VP Overkommissat Zeth, (fmu), commanding officer of 1st Kommando.
3. The armament of the Bereitschaft consisted of sufficient German hand weapons to equip about one and one-half Kommandos, two 80-mm mortars, and one 150-mm mortar. Boxes with infantry rifles were trucked in at night in late July 1950. The rifles were said to have magazines which held ten cartridges, and telescopic sights, and would be issued to all personnel of the VP Bereitschaft.

6th VP Bereitschaft (Inf) in Land Thuringia

4. In September 1950, the 6th VP Bereitschaft (Inf) was quartered at 1 Knochenhauerstrasse, Meiningen, and had a personnel strength of about 1,000 men. It was organized into the Stabskommando, with motor transport and signal section; three Kommandos; and one Sonderabteilung, which was a mortar unit.
5. The officers of the Bereitschaft included VP-Oberkommissar Becker, (fmu), operations officer; VP-Rat Reinhardt, (fmu), liaison officer; VP-Rat Koch, (fmu), commanding officer of 1st Kommando; and VP-Oberkommissar Langold, (fmu), PK officer. The 6th VP Bereitschaft was recently issued Soviet carbines and submachine guns.

2d Kommando; VP-Oberkommissar Schroeder, (fmu), commanding officer of 3d Kommando; and VP-Oberkommissar Beil, (fmu), commanding officer of 4th Kommando.

14. The 6th VP Bereitschaft was equipped with four T-34 tanks with 76.2-mm guns, six self-propelled 50-mm cannons, 12 model 34 machine guns, 60 models 42 and 44 submachine guns, 250 model 98-K carbines, and 50 pistols. Sealed boxes stored in the basement of the installation contained new weapons from the U.S.S.R., especially machine guns and assault carbines, which had been issued to the unit by the central supply depot in Berlin. The Bereitschaft was also equipped with 12 to 15 trucks and passenger cars and 8 armored ammunition carriers.

2d VP Bereitschaft (Inf) in Land Brandenburg

15. Until 17 September 1950, the 2d VP Bereitschaft (Inf) was located in the former prisoner camp near the rolling mill in Kirchmoeser. The unit numbered about 1,000 police and was organized into a headquarters, three Kommandos, and one Sonderkommando, which was a mortar unit.

16. The officers at the headquarters of the 2d VP Bereitschaft were VP-Oberrat Knueppel, (fmu), commanding officer, a former career officer; VP-Oberrat Jaeger, (fmu), PK officer; VP-Oberrat Shukov, (fmu), Soviet liaison officer; VP-Rat Koenig, (fmu), operations officer, former officer; VP-Rat Leischke, (fmu), administrative officer; VP-Oberkommissar Rosner, (fmu), liaison officer to the HVA; and a veteran of the Spanish Civil War; VP-Kommissar Rothe, (fmu), personnel officer; VP-Kommissar Floeter, (fmu), adjutant; and VP-Kommissar Schubert, (fmu), propaganda officer.

17. The German weapons of the unit were in bad condition or even unserviceable. About the end of August 1950, the unit was issued Soviet machine guns, rifles, and submachine guns, with which officers were already being trained.

18. In mid-July 1950, the 2d VP Bereitschaft was inspected by Soviet Major General Kuruenko, or Kurinko, (fmu), who allegedly belonged to the GOMG, Potsdam, and was the inspector-general for the tactical training of the Volkspolizei. After reviewing the unit in a defense and an attack exercise, the general ordered a change in training from German to Soviet tactical doctrines. During instruction of the personnel of the Bereitschaft it was pointed out that the principal mission of the VP Bereitschaften was the training of NCOs and officers for the future people's army.

5th VP Bereitschaft (Inf) in Land Brandenburg

19. In October 1950, the 5th VP Bereitschaft (Inf) was located in the former transient camp for refugees in Kuechensee, about 1 km west of Storkow. The unit numbered about 1,500 police and was organized into three Kommandos and one Sonderkommando, which was a signal unit.

20. The key officers of the 5th VP Bereitschaft were VP-Oberrat Kapels, (fmu), commanding officer; VP-Oberrat Thuerhauf, (fmu), administrative officer; VP-Rat Valuschke, (fmu), director of training; and VP-Oberkommissar Bartols, (fmu), PK-officer.
